

CLIENT | ALERT

Client Alert Applies To: Self-Funded, Fully-Funded, Small Group, and Large Group

September 18th, 2019

Employers Should Continue Using the Current Version of Form I-9

Form I-9 (Employment Eligibility Verification) is used to verify the identity and work authorization of individuals newly hired to work in the U.S. All employers in the U.S. must complete a Form I-9 for each person, citizen or noncitizen, hired to work in the U.S. The current Form I-9 expired on August 31, 2019.

Earlier this year, the United States Customs and Immigration Service (USCIS) invited public comments on its proposal to extend the use of the current Form I-9, which expired on August 31, 2019. The USCIS recently announced that employers should continue using the current version of Form I-9 after its August 31, 2019 expiration date. The USCIS will provide further information about the new version of Form I-9 as it becomes available.

Please visit <http://www.moreton.com/category/compliance-updates/> for more information and to view other client alerts. This Client Alert was written by Carolyn Cox, Moreton & Company's in-house corporate counsel who provides our clients with compliance services. For additional questions, please contact Carolyn at 801-715-7110 or ccox@moreton.com.

© 2019 by Moreton & Company

This Client Alert is intended to alert recipients to recent legal developments. It does not constitute the rendering of legal advice or recommendations and is provided for your general information only. If you need legal advice upon which you can rely, you must seek an opinion from your attorney.